Module 5- KNOWLEDGE CHECK

- 1) If windows superuser account is "administrator" then what is the name of superuser account Linux?
- 2) What are the 2 types of user account?
- a) Local and active group user
- b) Local and active directory users
- c) External and active directory users
- d) Local and DNS users
- 3) How to create a user
- 4) What is the default group name of a local new user added?
- 5) "User cannot change password" is one of the options during account creation. What is the purpose of it?
- a) It's a job of an administrator to change a user password.
- b) If a generic account is created and used among a group of people then this option works the best.
- c) This option is used when users do not know how to change password.
- 6) How to logoff from windows 2016 server?
- a) In search then type logoff
- b) Click on windows start menu then click on user account in the left pane then sign out.
- c) Alt +Ctrl +Del then logoff
- d) Server manager tools then sign out.
- e) A, B and C
- 7) How to access user activity windows?
- a) Right click on task bar then task manager then Users tab
- b) Ctrl + Shit + Esc then Users tab
- c) Alt + Ctrl + Del then task manager then user tab
- d) All of the above
- 8) Which of the following utility is not part of windows accessories?
- a) Calculator
- b) Notepad
- c) Windows Server Backup
- d) Event viewer

e)	Snipping
9) a) b)	A package can have multiple programs True False
a) b) c)	What is the difference between daemon and process? Process runs in loop where daemon runs until defined task is completed Daemon runs in loop where process runs until defined task is completed There is no difference Process can only have one process thread
11)	How to save an even log?
A) B) C)	Which of the following are system resources that should be monitored Memory CPU Network traffic Hard disk space All the above
a)	How to automate a task or schedule job? Through task manager Through task scheduler Through 3 rd party chrome
	Which Short-cut key is used to switch between application? Alt + F5 Alt + TAB Ctrl + TAB F2
15) a) b) c)	Where can you find "Defragment and Optimize Drivers" tool? Server Manager Control panel Task Manager

d) Windows Settings